In celebration of our diverse community, the Office of Workforce Diversity, Equity and Life Quality, the Multicultural Resources Center, and The Tompkins County Diversity Consortium invite you to join the Wednesday Night Multicultural Reading Circle. The group meets every third Wednesday from 6:30–8:00 p.m., for an open and lively discussion on the book of the month. In addition to providing an open forum for learning, the circle promotes discussions on anti-discrimination issues. The “home” for such month will be in the attorneys-in-training at Cornell in 163 Day Hall.

April 2003: September 17, October 15, November 19 & December 17

Mark your calendars for upcoming Multicultural Reading Circle meetings:
Ego Be Gone

George Peter

It's been amusing by now to see how many people seem to be in search of something different. This is one of the reasons why I set up a shop called The Ego Be Gone. It offers a variety of products that are designed to help people let go of their egos and move on to a higher level of consciousness. It's a great way to connect with people and help them find their true selves.

New Study focusing on eating seekers participates

Students at Cornell are participating in a new study investigating the reasons people choose to fast and stop eating. Through this study, we hope to uncover patterns pertaining to the reasons why individuals choose to abstain from food. The study is currently underway and the results will be published in a forthcoming issue of the journal. For more information, please contact the principal investigator, Cornell graduate student Lauren Smith, at 607-255-2030 or via email at laurensmith@cornell.edu.
