Remembering 2005—A Lovely View Community

Dennis Stein

Looking back over the past year, 2005 was the year that The Cornell Tradition came to fruition. At the end of March, 109 current and former Cornellians signed up for the annual “Bring a Child to Work Day” program later that month.

During the month, Cornell staff members earned degrees from their employer while others graduated from five more universities. A total of 124 graduates attended the “Bring a Child to Work Day” event in early September, kicked off with an array of Family Balloons and Field Trips. During the week of celebration, the Employee Assembly sponsored an address featuring former President Hunter Rawlings, who reminded staff for their dedication, skill and generosity. The Employee Assembly’s auction later that week to benefit the Emergency Grant Fund included over $1,000 in Employee Gene, in its 31st year, ended Staff Celebrations Week, drawing a lively crowd of approximately 2,000 to a booth and a community dinner. During October, 17 staff members from across campus exhibited their work in the area’s annual Staff Arts Exhibit.

In October, CBC hosted the huge popular annual Halloween costume party which has become a highlight of the fall season. Staff and retirees— including Lenny Bloomgarden, Barbara Rosevear and Nancy Culligan— were honored during 2005 with the George Peter Award for Dedicated Service. Later in April, the Jennie T. Farley Office Professional’s Celebration of Women’s Issues at the university.

During November and December, staff members continued their work in the annual Staff Finalists Week, now 10 years old, kicked off with an array of FunShops and Field Trips. “Everyone Benefits from the United Way”

One of my favorite neighbors is 90 years old. Without the support from United Way partners like Goodwill and affiliates like Foodshelf, she wouldn’t be able to remain at home. And our neighborhood would be the worse for that.

When United Way agencies help someone make this a better community, everyone benefits.
